Back with a bang...the Ally Pally fireworks

AFTER a four-year absence the popular Alexandra Palace fireworks display is returning with a bang.

On Saturday November 2, the skies above Alexandra Palace Way, in Wood Green, will once again be filled with pyrotechnics, music and the sounds of "oohs" and "aahs" from north London residents.

The event was previously funded through voluntary donations on the night and was scrapped after it made a £63,000 loss in 2009. Now tickets will be sold in advance.

Duncan Wilson, chief executive of Alexandra Palace, said: "I am delighted to announce the return of Alexandra Palace's firework display in the park's 150th year.

"The fireworks were one of London's most popular Guy Fawkes Night events and I know both local people and those from all over London will welcome their return."

The event, which has seen up to 70,000 visitors on the night, will include the traditional family funfair and a buzzing street food village as well as a German beer festival in the Great Hall and special ice skating sessions.

The beer festival will be open to ticket holders from 2pm and will also include traditional food, Bavarian waitress service and live entertainment.

All lit up: The Alexandra Palace fireworks display on a previous Guy Fawkes Night

Families will be able to book special Guy Fawkes Night ice skating tickets at £5 per skater including skate hire.

Early bird tickets for the display are now on sale until October 27, costing £4 for children aged ten and over and £6 for adults. A limited number of tickets will be available on the day. Adults will be allowed to bring in a maximum of five children under the age of five for free.

Tickets can be bought from the ice rink, at www.backwithabang.com or by calling 020 3390 0150. Visit alexandrapalace.com for more information.

Appeal after death of stabbing victim

POLICE are appealing for information after a man was stabbed in Harringay last week and later died in hospital.

Detectives were called to North Middlesex University Hospital, in Sterling Way, Edmonton, at 7pm on Wednesday after a man had arrived for treatment with stab wounds.

The 44-year-old was transferred to the Royal London Hospital, in Whitechapel, east London, where he died later in the evening.

He has been identified as Rodney Adams, of Tottenham, and a post-mortem examination held at Haringey mortuary established that a stab wound was the cause of death.

Police officers believe the stabbing happened in St Ann's Road, near the junction with Green Lanes.

Detective Chief Inspector Tim Duffield, of the Homicide and Major Crime Command, who is leading the investigation, said: "We are appealing for anyone with information in connection with this attack, or who was in the area of Green Lanes, to contact us. Calls will be treated in confidence."

Anyone with information about the stabbing should call the incident room on 020 8358 0400. Alternatively, call Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

A 42-year-old man who was arrested on Thursday has been released on police bail until later in September pending further inquiries.

'DID THE POLICE ACT LAWFULLY - OR NOT?'

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

THE judge overseeing the Mark Duggan inquest has told the jury that the key issue they may have to decide is whether the police shooting that led to the 29-year-old's death was lawful or unlawful.

Opening the inquest at the Royal Courts of Justice in Holborn, central London, on Monday, Judge Keith Cutler said that at the centre of the hearing was "the regrettable loss of a young life".

That could be key issue, Mark Duggan inquest jury told

Mr Duggan, 29, was shot dead by police officers who had stopped the minicab in which he was travelling in Ferry Lane, Tottenham, on August 4, 2011.

The fatal shooting led to the riots which broke out in Tottenham days later and spread to other areas of London and across the country.

After the 11 members of the jury were sworn in, Mr Cutler said: "Present in court today are a number of Mark Duggan's family and friends, and to acknowledge the grief of those family and friends, and to respect that loss, we will just together have some moments of silence."

Moments earlier, Ian Stern, representing the armed police officers, had unsuccessfully tried to prevent the silence being observed.

He argued that it could be seen as a "sense of pressure upon the jury" and that it could be "misinterpreted by officers".

Over the coming weeks, the inquest will hear from more than 100 witnesses, including police officers, the minicab driver and members of the public who witnessed the shooting or its aftermath.

Concluding his opening comments on Monday, Mr Cutler told the jury: "It may be the case that at the heart of your considerations will be whether Mark Duggan was killed lawfully or unlawfully.

"There is no dispute that Mark Duggan sadly died as a result of a bullet fired by a police officer. He clearly will be a crucial witness and we will no doubt all listen with particular care to his explanations for his actions."

Ashley Underwood, counsel to the inquest, told the jury they must consider whether it was necessary for the armed officer, who says he believes he had to act in self-defence, to fire a fatal shot and whether a planned police operation minimised the need for lethal force.

The inquest is expected to last until the end of November.

Car charger thief jailed

A MAN has been jailed for eight weeks after stealing a car charger last month.

Gary Williams, 47, of High Road, Tottenham, pleaded guilty to stealing the power pack worth £70 from a vehicle parked in Bennetts Close, Tottenham, when he appeared at Highbury Corner Magistrates' Court on Tuesday last week.

Inspector Neil Bilany said: "A sentence like this shows would-be criminals that neither the police nor the courts will accept this type of behaviour."

Housing opponents 'devastated' after Cat Hill scheme approved

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

CAMPAIGNERS opposed to a 231-home development on the border of Enfield and Barnet have lost their battle against housing association London & Quadrant.

On Friday, London Mayor Boris Johnson rubber-stamped L&Q's proposed regeneration of the former Middlesex University campus in Cat Hill, which has been empty since September 2011.

The development, which will consist of several five-storey blocks and 59 terraced houses, had been approved by Enfield Council in March.

Kim Coleman, of Mansfield Avenue, Barnet, who has been leading the community campaign against the plans, said Mr Johnson's decision had left her "absolutely devastated".

"It seems to me that Mr Johnson has not understood the environmental implications of the development, particularly in regards to wildlife," she said.

"We also feel he failed to take into account the strength of public opposition to the plans.

"Some 500 people have sent written objections, including MPs David Burrows and Theresa Villiers and London Assembly member Joanne McCartney."

Andy Rowland, L&Q's land and projects director, said: "We are delighted that the mayor has allowed our proposals for the site.

"We now look forward to beginning

Contentious: The vision for Cat Hill and, right, opponent Kim Coleman work as soon as we can, subject to meeting the remaining conditions in the planning process. We plan to build well-designed homes that match the character of the area.

"As long-term stewards of the Cat Hill ponds, we would implement a 25-year woodland management plan to conserve valuable mature and veteran oak trees across the site and encourage native woodland species, further improving the diversity and value of the woodland habitat for wildlife."

Dr Coleman said the group had planned to launch a judicial review but only raised £4,500 of the £20,000 needed for a legal challenge.

She added: "It doesn't end here. We will ensure that all conditions attached to the planning application will be fully met and we will continue to ask the council for details about this.

"The residents have been great over the past three years. Unfortunately, this development will cause them great disruption."

Building work is expected to start within the next few months.

Bundles of fun at mayor's run

Flat out: Nick Lewis, 15, takes a well-earned breather after the run

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

RUNNERS, joggers and elite athletes warmed up the chilly autumnal air on Sunday as they sped through the grounds of Forty Hall in blisteringly fast times.

Enfield mayor Chaudhury Anwar kicked off the annual Mayor's Fun Run, which saw athletes of all abilities race over three or ten kilometres in a bid to raise money for the annual charity appeal.

The men's 10 kilometres race was won by Matthew Woodman, who raced round the course in 35 minutes and 41 seconds, while the women's winner Sharon Rider completed the distance in 45 minutes and three seconds.

Keeping up the pace, 4-year-old Joseph Young won the men's three kilometres race in 10 minutes and 22 seconds with Jade Dos Santos, winner of the women's event, finishing close behind in 10 minutes and 57 seconds.

The sum of all monies raised through sponsorship will not be tal-led until next month, and although the mayor has not yet decided which charities will receive the funds, his office has confirmed that they will be distributed among the voluntary sector with particular attention paid to smaller community groups.

Mr Anwar said: "This year's fun run was a fantastic success. More than 1,000 people came and had a wonderful time."

"Congratulations to the winners. Not only was it a wonderful day but money was being raised for good causes as well."

Health chiefs confident ahead of Chase Farm downgrade

By Koos Couvee

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

HEALTH bosses at Barnet and Chase Farm NHS Hospitals Trust have agreed that Barnet Hospital is ready to take on additional patients when the accident and emergency and maternity departments close at Chase Farm in November.

In a significant step towards the downgrade of the hospital, in The Ridgeway, Enfield, the trust board unanimously agreed on Friday that it was safe to go ahead with the implementation of the Barnet, Enfield and Haringey Clinical Strategy.

The £115million strategy will see Barnet Hospital, in Wellhouse Lane, High Barnet, and North Middlesex University Hospital, in Sterling Way, Edmonton, take on extra patients following the downgrade of Chase Farm.

Barnet Hospital was allocated £23million in January to expand and improve maternity and A&E services, as well as provide 200 additional parking spaces.

The hospital expects building work to be completed by November.

However, health campaigners have said they believe that both Barnet and North Mid will struggle to cope with increased demand.

Speaking to the trust board on Friday, Kieran McGregor, of the Save Chase Farm campaign, said: "Is the board aware that last year, 158 women in labour were turned away from Chase Farm and Barnet hospitals because there were not enough beds?"

"There is a serious concern about how Barnet will cope when maternity at Chase Farm shuts.

"And I am sure the members of the board have not worked with builders before, because there is no way the work will be completed by November."

Terina Riches, director of nursing, said that the hospital did not need to recruit any midwives or gynaecology consultants to maintain its 1:30 midwives-to-birth-ratio, as staff would move from Chase Farm to Barnet.

She added that the implementation of the strategy was necessary to improve performance.

Cathy Geddes, programme director at the trust, said that Barnet Hospital would have capacity for 6,000 births a year and that the trust did not expect the number of annual births to be higher than 5,500.

In 2012/13, 3,022 babies were born at Chase Farm and 3,281 at Barnet Hospital.

Ms Geddes added that she was confident all building work would be completed on time.

Chase Farm's maternity and inpatient paediatric services are due to close on November 20 and the A&E department is expected to shut its doors on December 9, after which it will be turned into an urgent care centre.

The ultimate decision on the clinical strategy will be made next Wednesday by the Enfield, Barnet and Haringey clinical commissioning groups at a meeting to be held at Underhill stadium, in Barnet Lane, High Barnet, starting at 9am.

Last Tuesday, it was announced that the Barnet and Chase Farm NHS Hospitals Trust would receive £5.1m in additional funding from the Department of Health to deal with increased pressures on emergency services during the winter month

All change: Chase Farm is losing A&E and maternity departments

Hospitals handed winter cash reserve

ENFIELD hospitals have been allocated millions of pounds to deal with increased pressures on emergency services this winter.

The extra funding, which was announced by the Department of Health last week, amounts to £3.8million for North Middlesex University Hospital, in Sterling Way, Edmonton, and £5.1m to be shared across Chase Farm Hospital, in The Ridgeway, Enfield and Barnet Hospital, in Wellhouse Lane, High Barnet, as both are administered by the same trust.

The money was allocated by the NHS Trust Development Authority, which oversees NHS foundation trusts, and NHS England to ten trusts areas in London where it was deemed most needed.

A spokesman for the Enfield Clinical Commissioning Group told the Advertiser: "We are working with our local hospitals and health and social care partners to identify how to best invest the money in services that will meet the needs of Enfield patients throughout the winter.

"We have drawn up plans which we expect to be finalised at the end of the month and will then be able to explain more fully how the money will be used." The DoH said the extra money was needed to support accident and emergency departments in the short-term this winter.

Health Secretary Jeremy Hunt also set out proposals to tackle increasing pressures on A&E services in the long term – starting with care for vulnerable older patients with complex health problems.

Hospitals eligible for a share of the extra funding will need to ensure that at least 75 per cent of its staff have been vaccinated against flu this year.

Broken lifts a warning of things to come at hospital

Dialysis patient and wife express North Mid fears after unhappy visit

By Kim Inam

kim.inam@nlhnews.co.uk

A DIALYSIS patient, who had his treatment delayed by more than an hour after broken lifts stopped him getting to his ward at North Mid, says the hospital will not be ready for the closure of Chase Farm in two months' time.

Gerrard Lamb arrived for his usual appointment at 5.40pm last Tuesday, but was prevented from getting to the ward on the fourth level of North Middlesex University Hospital's tower block because all three lifts were out of action due to refurbishment works.

"I'm not mobile enough to walk the stairs myself," said Mr Lamb, who has multiple health problems including diabetes.

"We were told to just sit there while the lifts got sorted.

"It's disgraceful that three main lift shafts were not working at any one time – we have often had to wait with only one lift not working."

After a 45-minute wait, staff at the hospital, in Sterling Way, Edmon- ton, decided to take patients up and down the tower block in a goods lift.

ANNE MARIE SANDERSON

Hospital fears: Gerrard and Elizabeth Lamb are concerned North Mid will not cope with an influx of extra patients

The move meant that nurses had to accompany patients in the lift and also be on hand to assist at the entrance and exits.

Mr Lamb, of Tintern Road, Wood Green, finally started his treatment at 7.15pm, and the delay meant that he did not get home until after midnight.

North Mid has ongoing building works preparing for an influx of patients no longer able to go to Chase Farm, in The Ridgeway, Enfield, for treatment.

Last week it was reported that the hospital's board has signed off the Barnet, Enfield and Haringey Clinical Strategy, which includes the downgrade of Chase Farm's accident and emergency, maternity and inpatient services, forcing patients to instead go to North Mid or Barnet Hospital.

But Mr Lamb's wife Elizabeth added: "They can't cope. North Mid is not ready for the downgrade."

A spokesman for the hospital explained that during the refurbishment works, one lift had been kept out of action.

He added: "Due to accidental damage and power failure the other two lifts were put out of action for a period of 90 minutes on Tuesday evening. The maintenance company were contacted and resolved the problems. Both lifts have been fully working since then."

"The refurbishment is taking place while the tower block has only two wards within it as we refurbish the remaining floors for clinical strategy. The refurbishment works remain on time."

Met must pay millions in riots compensation

By Kim Inam*kim.inam@nlhnews.co.uk*

A HIGH Court judge has ruled that the Metropolitan Police must pay compensation to Sony and stockists who lost their property in a warehouse blaze during the 2011 London riots.

A gang of about 15 youths, armed with a sledgehammer, baseball bat and iron bar, smashed in through the glass doors of the centre in Solar Way, Enfield Lock, on the night of August 8.

Within three minutes the gang had ransacked the building and then set it alight with two petrol bombs before fleeing the scene, some riding bicycles.

No one has yet been prosecuted for the crime.

The compensation case was lodged when the Mayor's Office of Policing and Crime refused a claim made by the insurance firms for Sony, Mitsui Sumitomo, Tokio Marine Europe, the warehouse owners Cresta Estates Limited and the three DVD firms Clear Vision, Lace International and Asphyxiation Films for loss of property, stock and business interruption totalling more than £60million.

The Met claimed that the attack on the warehouse had not constituted a riot and had been a calculated criminal act. However, last Thursday Mr Justice Flaux ruled against the police – saying he agreed that the “group of youths who attacked, looted and set fire to the warehouse were persons riotously and tumultuously assembled together”.

The judge also said he believed the break-in and arson attack could have been prevented by police.

He said: “I consider that the fact the group was gathering quite openly in Enfield Island Village some two hours before the incident and was then seen moving towards the business park 15 minutes or more before the incident demonstrates the palpable threat of a riot, to which the police could, notionally, have responded and prevented what happened.”

However, the judge did not allow the insurance companies to claim for consequential losses because of the blaze.

Lawrence Abramson, representing the three DVD firms, said: “All are very pleased with the outcome. The fire had a very serious effect on the DVD industry.”

“We have had the closure of HMV, so it's nice for some good news for a change. I was surprised that the police defended it on the grounds they did.”

A spokeswoman for the Mayor's Office of Policing and Crime said it would be appealing against the decision. “While we are pleased that the court has recognised MOPAC is not responsible for covering consequential losses, it is immensely disappointing that they have ruled this was a riotous act,” she said.

“There is an important point of principle and public money at stake here and we have sought leave to appeal.”

Sony was unavailable for comment.

Man shot dead in dawn ambush was carrying two guns, court is told

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

A MAN who was shot dead in Enfield six years ago was armed with two guns and wearing body armour when he was killed, a court heard last week.

Duane Tomlin, 21, who was armed with a loaded handgun and a pistol and wearing body armour, was shot in Dendridge Close in the early hours of July 5, 2007, after the minicab in which he was travelling had been ambushed at a car park on the Elsing estate, the Old Bailey was told on Thursday.

Robert Bernard, 30, of no fixed address, and Adrian Thomas, 29, of Lion Road, Edmonton, deny murdering Mr Tomlin.

Detective Inspector Mark Brooks, of the Metropolitan Police Trident Gang Crime Command, told the court he had recovered the guns from the minicab at the scene of the shooting later that day.

Two days later, Mr Brooks said, a rucksack was retrieved from behind shrubbery near Southbury Road, Bush Hill Park. It contained three handguns, loose rounds of ammunition and a loaded magazine.

The guns were later discovered to have been used in the killing.

Detective Constable Anna Starling, of Enfield Police, the first officer to arrive on the scene, told the court that when she got there she found Mr Tomlin wearing a bulletproof vest, outside the minicab on the ground, and his driver, Barir Ahmed, deeply upset with "his head in his hands".

A witness to the aftermath of the shooting, who lived on the Elsing estate at the time, told the court: "I was woken up by the sound of a gunshot.

"I then heard loud screaming, followed by several more gunshots.

"When I looked out of the window, I saw three vehicles doing a U-turn and driving away down the road at great speed."

Jurors were told that a white van, which the prosecution argues was used in the attack, was found alight in nearby Lackmore Road minutes afterwards.

A post-mortem examination revealed that Mr Tomlin, who lived in a flat in Baker Street, Enfield, had been shot six times in the head and body.

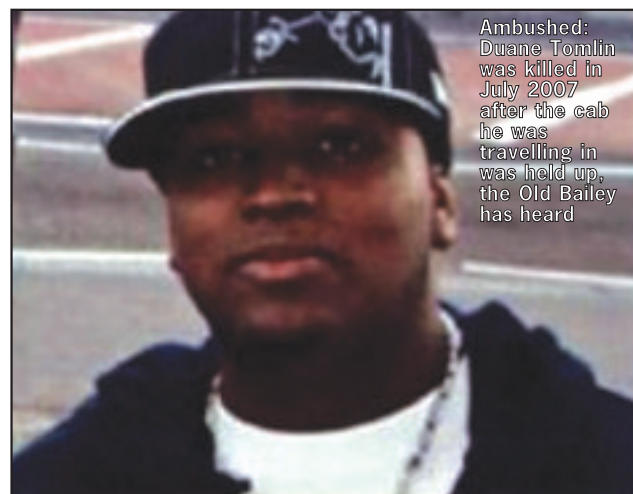

An international arrest warrant for Bernard, who was living in Thailand, had been issued in July last year and he was arrested after arriving in the UK on December 20.

Police had been searching for him for several years and it was previously thought that he had been staying in the Caribbean.

Thomas was arrested on December 19.

Both men are also accused of possessing a firearm with intent to endanger life.

The trial continues.

COMMENT

Children will be children

WHAT springs to mind when you think of a nuisance noise that ruins the peace and quiet of weekday mid-morning?

The clatter and beep of a refuse lorry? Possibly. The sound of builders drilling and sawing at a neighbour's house? Probably.

But the sound of children laughing, playing or generally, well, being children – why should that take away enjoyment of the great outdoors?

We all know that peace and quiet is as valuable as gold dust in our urban environment, but the sound of children playing is not the same as trains, or cars, or heavy industry. It is part of the natural world.

If you have a problem with the sound of children at play, why should you stop toddlers from enjoying themselves?

Why are the views of a handful of neighbours worth so much more to council officers than the rights and health of 24 children?

Hoping for the best

THE allocation of additional funding to deal with winter pressures on the emergency departments at both of Enfield's NHS hospitals does not bode well for the future.

While the Barnet, Enfield and Haringey Clinical Strategy, which will see services removed from Chase Farm, will mean more consultant cover and expanded departments at North Mid and Barnet, the extra funding suggests that NHS bosses have doubts over whether the hospitals can cope.

While board members at Barnet and Chase Farm and North Mid have decided the strategy needs to go ahead, it was hard to escape an overwhelming sense of "fingers crossed".

Perhaps, the timeline for the implementation of the strategy should have been more flexible.

Questions remain around recruitment and the readiness of staff, as well as the completion of building work at both hospitals.

The people must still be heard on Chase Farm plan

MONTY Meth's article, "Planned Chase Farm changes prove the NHS doesn't belong to the people" (Advertiser, August 28), was an inspiration for people to join in helping the campaign against the proposed downgrading of Chase Farm Hospital, with more money needed for primary care.

Those wanting to help should ring 020 8807 2076 – public opinion should have been and still must be heard.

The NHS belongs to the people who pay for it, with the exception of the few who try to manage it.

Enfield Clinical Commissioning Group, which is made up of GPs with ex-primary care trust guiding management, has signed up to be one of six CCGs to be a national management pilot for "the NHS belongs to the people", another logo under which it is a get-together of those few.

The Call To Action Event on September 5 was for invited guests only and another presentation of proposals claiming that public opinion agrees with them when clearly it does not.

On September 25, the Barnet, Enfield and Haringey CCGs are set to meet again, undoubtedly to make a decision, or not, to go forward with the flawed proposals to downgrade Chase Farm Hospital.

There is also to be yet another protest march and demonstration by residents through Enfield from the war memorial on Saturday, October 26, to keep Chase Farm A&E, maternity and paediatrics on site.

❑ I ATTENDED the meeting on Tuesday morning last week of the North Middlesex University Hospital Trust at which the decision to close services at Chase Farm this winter was rubber-stamped.

It was a public meeting and I was disappointed that not a single elected representative (MP or councillor) was present to question the validity of the decision.

The absence of elected representatives is outrageous given the pre-election promises from representatives of all political parties to campaign to save services at Chase Farm.

I trust our politicians will turn out in force and express their views at the final decision meeting in Barnet on September 25.

Outstanding care

IN reply to the article, "North Mid cancer care rated among the worst" (Advertiser, September 11).

I have been attending the breast cancer clinic at North Middlesex Hospital over many years, culminating in major surgery at the beginning of this year.

At all times the consultant has explained my problems and discussed clearly the treatment with me.

The nurses here have always been caring and supportive, making sure that I had all the help I needed at all times.

I have received good care from all of the staff both as a "in" and "out" patient.

Drama students were a dancing delight

I READ the letter from K Brown, "So much for lots to enjoy" (Advertiser, September 11), which gave a good overview of the Palmers Green Festival Week.

I was particularly happy at the mention of the dancing "flash-mob", which took place at Morrisons supermarket. It is a pity this was not reported in the previous edition of your newspaper as the 100-plus drama students of the Centre Stage company practised for some time to get it right so that the event was a success.

Credit must also be given to Morrisons for allowing the event, which while short was enjoyed by many and showed local children entertaining local people.

Improving the lives of all those 'living with dementia'

PART of the important work of the newly-created Enfield Dementia Action Alliance is to challenge the stigma around dementia, raise awareness and help to improve the life of people living with dementia and their carers in Enfield.

Dementia is the umbrella term for a range of diseases of the brain which cause memory loss, confusion and changes in mood and behaviour.

Although some forms of dementia are relentless, many people live long lives after being diagnosed and your talking about "dementia sufferers" (Advertiser, September 11) will not make it any easier for them.

At the Alzheimer's Society, we talk about "people living with dementia", which seems especially relevant as it is not only the person with the diagnosis, but their loved ones, friends and families who also live with the presence of dementia.

Seventy-five per cent of people with dementia surveyed in our Dementia 2013 report said they felt lonely. They lose friends and receive fewer visits after diagnosis.

We want to create many new "dementia friends" to make Enfield a more dementia-friendly borough, with heightened awareness for people in shops, council services, voluntary organisations, care homes and other businesses.

We want people with dementia to keep on going about their business in our town for as long as possible, with the support they need, to help them live their lives well.

If you are an organisation wishing to join the Enfield Dementia Action Alliance, contact Paul Allen, commissioning manager for Enfield, by emailing paul.allen@enfield.gov.uk – or me at esther.watts@alzheimers.org.uk

If you are an individual and want to make a difference to people with dementia, visit www.dementiafriends.org.uk or the Alzheimer's Society website at www.alzheimers.org.uk

If you are a denture wearer then this article may be of some interest to you!

If you can relate to any of the following questions then it is a sign your denture needs attention:

DO YOU FIND YOUR DENTURES:

- Do not fit as well on your gums as they used to?
- Are they loose?
- Do not cut food as well as they used to?
- Do they make your face look older?
- Have discoloured despite meticulous cleaning or
- Cause discomfort/pain on chewing?

If any of the above breeds familiar territory then I may be able to alleviate some of these problems for you.

My name is Caroline Persaud I am a qualified CLINICAL DENTAL TECHNICIAN.

Many of you may be aware of Dental Technicians/Mechanics who repair and produce dentures for dentists, however, due to recent changes in the Dental law, a group of Dental Care Professionals known as Clinical Dental Technicians have been approved by the General Dental Council and can now see denture wearers who have no natural teeth remaining, directly without having to visit a dentist. The advantages to you, the patients, are numerous. You can be treated by a professional who has been clinically trained to undertake the impressions of your mouth and who also has the technical skill to manufacture your denture to meet your requirements.

Protests in vain as parks get a licence to party

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

PLANNING chiefs have given the green light to proposals to make it easier for community groups to hold events in 15 of the borough's parks – despite more than 100 objections from residents.

Last Wednesday, Enfield Council's licensing subcommittee approved an application to grant events licences for the parks, allowing them to be used for events from 8am to 11pm.

The licences should help cut through red tape and make it easier for community groups to apply to stage an event.

The council received letters opposing licensing for every park – including 77 in relation to Oakwood Park in Oakwood, 45 for Grovelands Park in Southgate and 20 for Library Green in Enfield Town.

Joan Yates, of River View, Enfield Town, who formally objected to a licence for Library Green, was one of five residents who made representations to the committee.

She said: "Those of us fortunate to live in the Gentleman's Row area are custodians of this very special place and it is for us to preserve the tranquillity of our green open spaces for future generations to enjoy."

"We've lived in the area for 40 years and music and film events will cause us a great disturbance."

Concerned: Joan and Geoffrey Yates, who live near Library Green in Enfield Town

We are very concerned about noise pollution."

Mrs Yates' husband Geoffrey told the committee: "Film and music events require stages to be set up and the like, which could damage the green. I just don't understand the council allowing the borough's green spaces to be used in this way."

Petitions were also lodged against proposals for Albany Park in Enfield Wash and Holmesdale Tunnel Open Space in Bullsmoor.

The Met Police and the London Fire Brigade did not object to the plans.

Outlining the committee's decision, chairman Derek Levy said: "The panel believes that the applicant has taken all reasonable steps to promote the licensing objectives."

"I acknowledge the concerns and reservations of all parties who have made submissions, but we felt they were largely borne out of speculation, conjecture and assumption and provided insufficient evidence to weight the argument in favour of any other decision."

Robert Hayward, a Conservative councillor for Southgate ward, said: "They're saying this will not increase the number of events, but why then does the licence apply for 365 days a year?"

"I'm afraid this will cause great disturbance across the borough."

The committee will decide on whether to grant a licence to Bush Hill Park and Enfield Playing Fields today.

Councillor is anonymous as conduct probe takes place behind closed doors

AN Enfield Council conduct meeting was held in private without the presence of either press or public on Monday night.

Listed on the council's website as a public meeting, when the Advertiser attended room 3 in the Civic Centre, in Silver Street, Enfield, we were told that the information to be discussed in the meeting was confidential and could only be heard by councillors and council officers.

Therefore, although it was clear the meeting was about the conduct of a councillor, the Advertiser was prevented from finding out the identity of the member under investigation. We were also stopped from finding out the nature of the investigation into the councillor's behaviour or what had prompted the probe.

A council spokesman told the Advertiser: "Press and public were excluded from the meeting to enable members to discuss exempt information regarding a complaint made about a councillor."

The spokesman added that personal information relating to the councillor that was tabled to be discussed was protected under the Data Protection Act.

Under investigation: This year's level 6 SATs exams at Eversley Primary School

SATs investigation underway at school

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

THE Advertiser can exclusively reveal that the investigation into a raft of irregularities at a primary school has formally begun – months after concerns were first raised.

The official investigation into "irregularities" in level 6 SATs exams at Eversley School, in Chaseville Park Road, Southgate, has been launched two months after it was first reported there were major inconsistencies in how the higher level exam had been administered.

In July, it was revealed that the Department for Education had no record of any children in Eversley having been entered for the higher level 6 SATs exams and that no exam papers would have been sent to the school.

However, parents and pupils believed they had sat the same exam that thousands of other Year 6 children across the country had done on the same day.

When approached in July to ask how the exam paper the children sat had been obtained, the board of governors initially told the Advertiser that an investigation had been launched.

That later emerged not to be the case as the governors admitted that they would not begin formal investigations until the new term had started – four months after the children had sat the tests in May.

A statement issued by an Enfield Council spokesman on behalf of the board of governors said: "We can confirm the investigation into level 6 SATs at Eversley Primary School has started and will report back in due course."

"Until this investigation has concluded it would be inappropriate to comment further."

Award for scheme which has led to a 60 per cent cut in youth crime levels

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

TEENAGE thugs who terrorise younger school-children by mugging them in broad daylight have been stopped in their tracks by an award-winning scheme.

The raft of measures brought into the borough in 2009, in the wake of a spate of mobile thefts, has seen youth crime in Enfield drop by almost 60 per cent in four years.

By staggering school closing times, giving kids starting secondary school free mobile phone registration and setting up dispersal zones in high-crime areas, the police have been able to clamp down on the scourge of teenage criminality.

Enfield Council's work with safer neighbourhood teams has included investing in diversionary after-school activities for teenagers and has seen teams of police officers scour the borough on the look-out for truants – and four years after the start of the scheme, the council scooped the Problem Orientated Partnership Award at New Scotland Yard last week.

Praising the work of council and police officers, cabinet member for community well-being and public health Christine Hamilton said: "We do not tolerate crimes against young children, regardless of whom they are perpetrated by, and we have worked incredibly hard to make our school pupils safe and identify and capture those responsible for these despicable crimes."

"I am delighted that street robberies against our children are at an all-time low thanks to our efforts over the past four years, and this award is a testament to the hard work and dedication of council and police officers who put together a tremendous project to tackle a crime which is of great concern to schoolchildren and parents alike."

Book tells secret of how hacker's mum kept going despite extradition fears

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A MOTHER who fought for more than a decade to stop her autistic son's extradition to America has published the story of her struggle.

Janis Sharp, 64, battled the US and British judicial systems for 11 years after her son Gary McKinnon, from Palmers Green, was arrested in 2002 for hacking into US military computers.

Although Gary admitted the charges, he always maintained his attempt to hack the computers was down to his lifelong obsession with UFOs.

Mother and son were left overjoyed last year when Home Secretary Theresa May finally announced that the British government had decided to block any attempts to extradite him.

A few months later Janis decided the time had come to tell the world the story of her lengthy campaign.

"Initially, I wasn't going to write anything about myself, but people always asked me where I got my strength from – and in writing the book I realised that my upbringing had a lot to do with it," Janis told the Advertiser.

"In those days there was no technology – Gary's crime would have been science fiction.

Children had so much more freedom then, and day to day you were forced to make quite important decisions."

Janis admitted that writing the book, Saving Gary McKinnon: A Mother's Story, was a deeply cathartic experience.

She said: "It is difficult because you are putting yourself back there. It's like you are experiencing all those emotions all over again, and really part of you doesn't want to put your head back in it all over again."

Throughout Janis' fight for her son's freedom, she and her husband continued to foster children.

And she credits this added responsibility with helping her get through some of the toughest years of her life.

"The children I was fostering brought me out of myself because all I could do was think, talk and breathe Gary – I must have been a bore," she said.

"But when you have little children in the house, seeing them come on is such a rewarding thing. It takes you out of yourself."

Janis currently lives in Potters Bar with her husband, three foster children, and their pets.

She will be appearing at Wood Green Library in High Road at 3.30pm on October 12 as part of the Wood Green Literary Festival.

Looking back: Conservative Nick de Bois delivers his victory speech after taking Enfield North from Labour's Joan Ryan at the 2010 general election

Polls suggest Tory de Bois could lose seat to former MP Joan Ryan

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

FORMER MP Joan Ryan could be set to snatch back her old seat from Nick de Bois, according to polling data released this month.

The information, published on Sunday by the polling website Lordashcroftpolls.com, reveals that in three marginal London seats, including Enfield North, more people said that they were likely to vote for a Labour candidate than a Conservative one.

When asked for whom would they vote if there was an election tomorrow, 47 per cent of voters in the three London marginal seats of Enfield North, Hendon and Brentford and Isleworth said they would choose Labour, while only 26 per cent would support the Conservative candidate.

Enfield North is currently held by Tory MP Mr de Bois, who won the seat in 2010 with a majority of 1,692 votes.

Despite the boost to her campaign, Labour candidate for Enfield North Ms Ryan, who held the seat for 13 years before it was taken by Mr de Bois, told the Advertiser: "The only poll that matters will be on election day."

"The people of Enfield will make

Hopeful of a return: Joan Ryan is standing for Labour in Enfield North their decision on election day. People in Enfield feel very let down by this government."

She added: "We know that energy bills are going to go up again. People are really struggling."

"The cost of living generally keeps rising and I think that this explains the switch away from the Tories.

"People know that the one thing Labour is committed to is standing up for people and being fair."

Mr de Bois was unavailable for comment at time of going to press.

Habs Boys and Girls - August 2013 The Haberdashers' Aske's Schools

'side by side for Excellence'

The Haberdashers' Aske's Schools (Elstree), placed 'side by side for excellence', enjoy the best of all worlds in school education. On adjoining sites in 100 plus acres of secure grounds, they are two, single-sex, independent day schools whose pupils benefit greatly from a vast range of social and educational opportunities. The academic reputation of the two schools is well known: they are firmly established in the 'premier league' of annually published league tables, a remarkable achievement in itself. The vast majority of Haberdashers' students go to their first choice university, exceptionally high numbers to Oxford and Cambridge, and some achieve national academic distinction during their time at school.

The Habs style is to love learning and to enjoy the academic opportunities alongside a huge wealth of extra-curricular activity. In both schools the range of the non-academic curriculum is enormous and the level of participation by pupils very high. Sport, music, theatre, art, service in the community, partnerships with local state schools, debating, public speaking, society meetings, fund-raising initiatives, outward bound and adventurous training activities and every type of leadership and resourcefulness opportunities are all regular features of the termly routine.

The comprehensive coach service, with over 110 stops, offers a transport network over a 30 mile radius to and from school, with an unrivalled provision for pupils attending after school activities.

Life at Haberdashers' is never dull. The combination of bright pupils, marvellous facilities, first-class tuition and our commitment to excellence create a stimulating school life bursting with opportunities.

The Habs experience is varied, challenging and fun.

OPINION

Vicki Pite

Environment matters

Let's hope next autumn brings an increase in town show participation

THERE is no more evocative word in the English language than autumn – the season of mists and mellow fruitfulness. Thus it was that I visited the 60th Enfield Autumn Town Show – the high point of which is, for me, the horticultural marquee.

This year there was the awesome sight of a pumpkin the size of a cupboard alongside exhibits of succulent blackberries, root vegetables, gladioli, beautiful flower arrangements, honey, sponges and scones.

The displays spoke powerfully of endeavour, warmth, pride and enthusiasm, and of patient dedication. And yet, sadly, the horticultural tent is a shadow of its former days because far fewer people participated than in the past.

I wonder why?

After all, Enfield has excellent gardening centres and allotments and there's no shortage of advice on TV programmes and in gardening books.

Have we simply forgotten the enjoyment to be had in sharing the festival of harvest?

Capel Manor's Taste of Autumn last weekend carried on the good work of raising awareness of the borough's horticultural treasures.

And it's great that I can buy locally grown produce nearby because Enfield Council and Forty Hall Farm have joined forces to provide us with a market garden. See more at www.fortyhall-estate.co.uk/whats-on/creative-opportunities/market-garden-project.

Let's hope more of us get involved in the Autumn Show 2014.

From the traditional to the new – I loved the Cycle Enfield event. Motorists rejected their cars for the weekend to discover the joys of fresh air and exercise.

It was a delight to see children and adults enjoying the huge range of bicycles, tandems and "carry me" wheelbarrow bikes, proving that cycling has something for everyone.

We've seen huge improvements recently in the cycling infrastructure – greenways, maintenance classes, training and fun days.

So, well done to our council in being shortlisted for the London Mayor's Mini Holland investment programme and good luck in the final selection.

"We at Highland Foods have always been concerned about the quality of meat people eat. More people are becoming aware about the need to eat healthily, so we only supply the best! Organic Meat which is Certified by the Soil Association and is truly the best money can buy"

The Soil Association is the largest and most recognised symbol of organic status.

S.J. SMITH

Prime British meat is among the finest in the world, but in recent years, some sectors of the farming industry have compromised that reputation. S.J. Smith make no compromises.

"Our meats uphold the finest standards of animal welfare, environmental care and gastronomic quality. All our meat comes from farmers dedicated to high animal welfare and quality".

Their cattle, sheep, pigs and poultry tend to be traditional breeds, not modern hybrids bred for economic reasons. The animals are raised in natural conditions, given spacious grazing areas and natural feeds rather than chemically treated mixes. Their farmers DO NOT administer any form of growth promoters.

"We believe that our meat is among the finest you can buy in Britain today, if you try it once, you'll see the difference".

MOORE & SONS

With highly professional & friendly staff this traditional butcher has sustained an outstanding reputation by offering for sale the finest quality Scotch Beef, including Orkney Island Gold & Prime Angus.

Moore & Sons recently changed premises after successfully trading for the last fifty years in Whetstone, North London, however their reputation for offering friendly service & selling only the finest products remains the same.

Some specialities they offer are Dry Cured Bacon (no added water) & Home Cooked Traditional Ham, Hand-linked gourmet sausages using natural casings which include Wild Boar with Apple, Spicy Lamb, Venison in Red Wine & Boerwors (an aromatic mix of herbs and spices from South Africa).

Apart from the retail side of the business, catering services are also available.

selected and prepared by them to make sure they are offering the best final product.

They welcome all new customers and are always willing to go the extra mile to make sure you get exactly what you need. This remains the foundation of their trusted reputation as a local butcher and sets them apart from the supermarkets.

Michael Lavender

Enfield Conservative group leader

Improving infrastructure is key to sustaining our growth and regeneration

THE government's economic plan appears to be working. Exports are up, business investment is rising and the manufacturing and construction sectors are growing.

There are signs that we are building a balanced, sustainable and broad-based recovery that works for hard-working people and ensures Britain can compete in the global race.

It is important, however, that Enfield benefits from this. In my opinion, the key to delivering economic growth and regeneration in Enfield lies in improving its infrastructure.

The slow and painful M25 improvements, the proposed rail enhancements to Stratford and the fact that Boris Johnson is taking control of the overground lines to Enfield Town and Cheshunt will certainly help.

What is less helpful is the up-skilling of people for unavailable jobs, which seems to be the main focus of Enfield Council's grants.

Meanwhile, there are two possible "bad news" stories that I will address head on and which I make no apology for.

One is the reduction in disposable incomes and the other is the effect of universal credits.

During the last economic boom the country was living beyond its means, credit and imports were cheap and debt increased.

Disposable incomes are now more sustainable and we should avoid the temptation for another mad rush to a further unsustainable economic boom to restore what went before.

Universal credits are now having an effect.

And that is a consequence of having a welfare system where work always pays

There are signs that we are building a balanced recovery more than benefits.

It is important that if we are to build sustainable communities that available, but relatively unattractive jobs are made relatively more attractive to the locally unemployed.

The situation whereby settled Enfield communities are better off on benefits than working, with a consequence that available jobs are filled only by new arrivals, often living in temporary accommodation, causes strains on the communities that we need to avoid.

DWIGHT SCHOOL LONDON

Ignites the "Spark of Genius" in every child

Learn How at an Open House

No two students are alike. And no other school fosters the development of the whole child in quite the same way as Dwight School London does. A budding artist. A top-ranked athlete. A brilliant scientist in the making... Whatever the talent or passion, Dwight is committed to realising every student's full potential. We call this "igniting the spark of genius" in every child. It's personal. It's your child.

What will your child's "spark of genius" be?

Learn more by attending an open house

FAMILY ANNOUNCEMENTS

Enterprise awards getting down to business

By Vanessa Ornskov

news.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

ENTRIES are now being accepted for the 2013 Enterprise Enfield Business Awards.

The annual competition, which specialises in recognising the borough's small and medium-sized businesses with fewer than 250 employees, is an opportunity for companies to demonstrate their success.

Enterprise Enfield is an independent, not-for-profit company and advisory and training organisation dedicated to helping people succeed in their careers.

There are five categories – start-up businesses, businesses which have been going for two years or more, green businesses, retailers and young entrepreneurs.

The prizes include £1,000 in cash, valuable publicity, the opportunity to display the Business Awards Winner logo on their website and marketing materials.

The 2012 business of the year winner, Empire Garages, in Hertford Road, Enfield Lock, highly recommends the competition for anyone looking to validate their work and potentially expand.

Company director Ajay Gokani said: "It gives the team recognition and it's great for networking with other small business owners who are like-minded."

Mr Gokani was glad that a colleague found the advert for the awards, because claiming the competition allowed Empire Garages to win two more titles this year.

He added: "Enterprise definitely helped us win the customer service excellence category of the

ANNE-MARIE SANDERSON

Best in the business: Last year's winner Ajay Gokani, of Empire Garages, in Enfield Lock Federation of Small Businesses. It made us focus on being better."

And the directors of Empire Garages were proud to contribute the prize money to their £800,000 development fund.

The awards are sponsored by Enfield Council, the RSA Trust and Start-Up Loans London.

Shortlisted entrants will be invited to attend the prestigious awards gala dinner and presentation ceremony at the Royal Chace Hotel, in The Ridgeway, Enfield.

Business owners can enter online at www.enterpriseenfieldbusinessawards.org before the 5pm deadline on Monday, October 7.

Burn post pregnancy fat!! Get rid of muffin tops!!

IF YOU'RE stuck with love handles or trying to lose inches without losing your bust Hypoxi may be able to help.

The studio in East Barnet Road, which is run by Sylvia, has been helping men and women get super- star looks for eight years.

There are two machines that are designed to target problem areas only, to help rejuvenate skin tone, slim the tummy and thighs, and lift the bottom.

Jessica and Lauren from TV series The Only Way Is Essex tried out the Hypoxi machines, which can help you drop a dress size in four weeks.

The machines work on targeted areas like the stomach, thighs, hips and buttocks as well as tackling cellulite through vacuum, compression and gentle exercise, which ensures stubborn toxins and fats are broken down and circulation is increased.

Your shape determines whether you use the Hypoxi or Vacunaut machine and clients between the sizes of eight to 24 can use them. And their oldest client is 72.

Sylvia said: "You don't have to be fit; it's not cardio, it's fat burning so it's quite gentle. It's an alternative to liposuction. People

War memorial to RAF's past

On the march: RAF cadets arriving at Chase Green for Sunday's memorial service

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

PEOPLE thronged Chase Green, Enfield, on Sunday to pay tribute to the thousands of RAF men and women who have died while serving their country over the past seven decades.

Billed as a memorial event to commemorate the 73rd anniversary of the Battle of Britain – when Royal Air Force fighter pilots defeated the Luftwaffe in the skies over Britain during World War II – the service was also dedicated to the memory of all those who had given their lives while serving in the RAF.

Rev Michael Edge, the vicar of St Andrew's Church, in Enfield Town, led the service at the war memorial while members of the public, Enfield mayor Chaudhury Anwar and council leader Doug Taylor joined together in hymns and prayers to commemorate the dead and celebrate the bravery and sacrifice of the living.

After the event, Ken Keen, welfare officer for the Royal Air Force Association Enfield explained: "We have commemorated those who lost their lives in the Battle of Britain every year since."

He told the Advertiser that with members of the public stopping and taking part spontaneously, alongside veterans and current service personnel, there were upwards of 300 people crowded on to Chase Green just behind the war memorial as the service was relayed to them over a PA system.

"The service is to commemorate the loss of all personnel who have served in the RAF right up until the present day," Mr Keen added.

Award winner Phil's films in short supply

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

A TWO-TIME BAFTA winner award will be providing an insight into short animation films at a community cinema event in Palmers Green on Friday.

Producer Phil Davies will be sharing his extensive knowledge of the rich, yet in Britain virtually unknown history of the films, and of the techniques involved in producing them, at an evening dubbed A Man In Shorts.

Phil, from Southgate, is one of the creative minds behind the Peppa Pig cartoon character,

The event is being held at Baskervilles Tea Shop, in Aldermans Hill, and forms part of a series of film nights organised by Talkies Community Cinema, a volunteer-led group which has been running fortnightly events in the area since October last year.

Phil will be showing early Pixar and Disney productions, some dating back to the start of the 20th century, before the rise of the feature film, as well as more recent productions such as the 1999 Portuguese animation The Night and his own 1980s' award-winning film Girls Night Out, which he produced while running the animation department at Middlesex University.

"In countries such as France and Portugal, short animation films are widely shown, but in Britain, because cinemas almost exclusively show feature films and there is no funding for it coming from TV any more, the genre is very much unknown to the wider public," he said.

"But there is a rich tradition of people making these films. I hope I'll be able to give some insight into the genre, and discuss some of the different approaches and techniques used."

Talkies founder David Williamson, 64, a retired schools inspector, who lives in Broomfield Avenue, had the idea to mix film with social events last year, having been a member of a friends' film club for 14 years.

"We do lots of short film events, which is not that usual among community cinema groups, but we have found that our audience really enjoys it," he said.

"The idea of Talkies is also to generate income for local businesses. We try to provide a bit of community glue, events through which people come together and everyone benefits."

Since 2002, Phil has been working with award-winning directors Mark Baker and Neville Astley. Their company, Astley Baker Davies Ltd, is based in central London.

Modern Hedda is hard act to follow

By Kim Inam

kim.inam@nlhnews.co.uk

ALTHOUGH at times I thought I was lost during Ibsen Stage Company's modern version of Hedda Gabler, what kept my attention was the intense portrayal of the intimate and volatile relationships, seen up close and personal.

Set in a recording studio, performed in the round, the audience is treated to a fly-on-the-wall viewpoint of a love/lust square with a charismatic, flame-haired femme fatale, whose life echoes that of her studio character Hedda.

Sarah Head plays the hypnotic G/Hedda and spends practically the whole performance on the New Diorama Theatre's stage.

Her duplicitous attitude to Millie, a loveable guardian of G's husband Tesman, wins her few fans with the audience.

However, her manipulative streak seems to be foiled when she comes into contact with her old acquaintance Ebbie – a dangerous liaison that is the catalyst to multiple disasters.

The concept of art echoing life is what initially left me wondering what was being played out in front of me, as although it was clear the path of G and her recording character of Hedda was intertwined, initially I did not realise it was the same for the other characters.

Additionally, I have to admit the audience's hard, school-like chairs, as well as knowing that there would be no interval, added to distraction – elements have now been cut to shorten the length of the piece.

Hypnotic: Sarah Head as G, with Matthew Rutherford as Brack, in Recording Hedda

But notable supporting performances came from Matthew Rutherford and Roseanne Lynch, with their rapport with G which would quickly change in front of other characters.

Also Tricia Deighton, who played Millie, added some almost slapstick-style light relief from the intensity of the psychological game playing.

Recording Hedda is at the New Diorama Theatre, Regent's Park, until September 28. Box office: 020 7383 9034. Tickets: £15.50, concessions £13.50. For more information, visit <http://newdiorama.com/>

Are you thinking about renting out your property but not sure if it's really worth it?

Are you concerned that prospective tenants might default on their rent payments?

Not sure of the costs involved and how much you can reasonably charge for rent to maximise your investment income?

Not sure about renting to complete strangers to live in your old home or investment?

Want to ensure your property is legally compliant to rent out?

Don't know how to put together a legal lease and the relevant documentation required?

If the answer is YES to any or all of these questions, then you only need to speak to Smart Housing Group - the one stop shop for looking after your property and making sure it works for you!

BE SMART LET YOUR PROPERTY WORK FOR YOU!

Smart Housing Group has taken the stress and hassle out of being a Landlord. Some of us, or perhaps our friends or family, might already have properties that we would like to rent out, or others of us might have considered buy-to-let as a more secure investment in these uncertain times. But, in either case, we might not be sure of how to go about it; what is legally required of a landlord; or may have heard horror stories about the potential pitfalls. Smart Housing Group offers a guaranteed rent service that gives Landlords the peace of mind of earning a regular income from their valuable asset(s) without having to deal with the problem of finding suitable tenants or dealing with day-to-day management and rent collection.

Smart Housing Group is an established provider of licensed accommodation to a number of London councils. The councils refer prospective tenants from their housing lists and Smart Housing Group manages the resulting tenancies on the councils' behalf. The rent is guaranteed throughout the lease period, and all properties are regularly inspected and professionally managed. Any repairs or maintenance issues can be attended to on the landlord's behalf and the landlord is kept fully informed throughout.

This really is the no hassle option for prospective landlords. Call Smart Housing Group and you will get all the reassurances you need.

Not available on second, additional homes, buy-to-let or let-to-buy properties. HomeBuy agent eligibility check required. The equity loan is interest free for the first five years and needs to be a minimum of 10% of the purchase price up to a maximum of 20%. After five years, an annual fee of 1.75% of the outstanding equity loan is charged. This is increased annually by RPI plus 1%. Subject to status, terms and conditions apply. Scheme ends March 2016.

the lettings specialist

What to look for when buying an investment property in Enfield.

I was talking with a landlord on Friday and he wanted to know what to look for when purchasing a buy to let property. One of the pieces of advice I offered was that the property should sell easily when you want to release funds from the investment. Property is not seen as a liquid asset, but you'd still want to convert your assets to cash with a sale as quickly as possible, and in property that means being able to sell and complete reasonably quickly.

Comparing property sales to the number of houses in a road should give a measure of how saleable a road is. The higher the number, the more sales there are per house and this information is used to work out, on average, how long people own properties in the road.

Based on the number of sales since 1995, the most saleable road in Enfield is Harston Drive where the average property sells every 7.6 years. There are 130 properties in this road and 315 sales so about 2.4 sales for every home. Others in the Top 10 include Keats Close which sell every 8.1 years, Gater Drive every 8.4 years, and Linwood Crescent every 8.8 years.

To put these times into context the national average property sells every 24 years, so these properties move at up to three times the national rate!

Please contact me if you would like some advice about what could make a good investment for you.

New Mazda 3 passes the toughest of tests

by Matt Kimberley

IT'S hard to imagine a more punishing setting for a first drive than eastern Russia, where the surfaces are maintained so badly that a single wheel out of place can mean the end of the road.

Yet, that is exactly where I got my hands on the new Mazda 3 hatchback for the first time as eight identical cars made their way across the widest country in the world.

It's also, inevitably, where one of the cars did put a wheel – or rather two – wrong, wrecking both right-hand-side rims on a single pothole.

This was a desperately tricky place for Mazda to introduce a car. Even local drivers were strewn across the route, tyres flat or wheels bent, all victims of insanely large potholes and frequently sunken highway.

So why do it this way? One reason might be that among the hordes of decades-old (in design, at least)

Ladas and Cold War-era vans, the curvaceous Mazdas stood out like Miss World contestants in a farmyard.

Their flowing shape, purposeful front-end styling and silhouettes reminiscent of the Ferrari FF gave the convoy something passers-by couldn't help but stare at.

The new 3 continues the firm's "Kodo" design theme, which means "soul of motion".

The result is stand-out styling, with the exception of the curiously long front overhang and tiny 16-inch alloys.

In truth, the upgraded 18-inch wheels that are set to be more popular in the UK wouldn't have survived the disintegrating Russian roads.

A long-looking bonnet and a backwards-slung passenger area give the 3 a "shooting brake"-style profile, presenting a premium first impression.

It is dimmed by those small wheels, however, and needs the 18s to look right.

Things are still recognisably

Japanese inside, with a mixture of sensible black plastics, hard-wearing surfaces and logical layouts all designed to satisfy previous Mazda, Toyota and Nissan buyers.

But it's more appealing place to sit for fans of European brands, with a greater emphasis on style, and a subtle improvement of shapes and finishes, without pushing too far in any one direction.

Some of the textures should be treated with care, however, because their coarse finish naturally rubs skin away and develops pale patches.

Passengers are catered for reasonably well, with good legroom in all seats and a light, airy feel in the front.

One criticism is that the heavily shaped rear bodywork cuts down on light in the back seats and makes it feel a little more cramped than it is.

Drivers are treated to a typically excellent Mazda position. It's easy to drop into the reasonably high seats, where you can then use the large range of adjustment in the seat and steering column to get comfortable and place the gear lever perfectly.

The mid-range 118bhp two-litre petrol engine employs Mazda's amazing SkyActiv technology to record fuel consumption and CO2 emissions scarcely believable for its type, but in this trim there's no getting away from its lack of lowdown urge.

A 165bhp edition is on the way, but this one is best limited to gentle running about and is quiet and smooth.

Arguably, the most impressive aspect was the way the car handled the shocking road quality.

Its suspension soaked up everything, even managing better than expected when huge bumps punched right through the springs' travel and into the bump stops.

Public Notices

ENVIRONMENT AGENCY
Water Resources Act 1991
(as amended by the Water Act 2003)
Notice of application to vary a full licence to abstract water
Notice is hereby given, in accordance with Section 37 of the Water Resources Act 1991 and Regulation 6 of the Water Resources (Abstraction and Impounding) Regulations 2006 that an application has been made to the Environment Agency by: Coca Cola Enterprises Limited to vary full licence to abstract water serial number TH/038/0009/038 which authorises the abstraction of water from Confined Chalk at Ely Trading Estate, Edmonton at TQ 35335 92455 and TQ 35285 92445.
The variation applied for is to add a borehole at TQ 35387 92391 and increase quantities to: 120 cubic metres an hour, 2,200 cubic metres a day 876,000 cubic metres a year and 33.3 litres per second
A copy of the application, map, plan and any other document submitted with it may be inspected free of charge at the address of the Environment Agency at Apollo Court, Bishops Square Business Park, Hatfield, Hertfordshire, AL10 9EX during normal office hours (Monday-Friday, except bank holidays).
Summary details of the application are also available from the Public Register held by the Environment Agency at the above address.
Any person who wishes to make representations about the application must do so in writing, quoting the name of the applicant and Reference Number NPS/WR/013941 to the Environment Agency, at Water Resource Permitting and Support Centre, Environment Agency, Quadrant 2, 99 Parkway Avenue, Sheffield, S9 4WF or by email to (o) psc-watersources@environment-agency.gov.uk by no later than: Wednesday 16th October 2013
For further advice about making a representation, a leaflet - 'Making your views count' is available free of charge on request from local Environment Agency offices. Any general enquiries about this notice can be made by telephoning 03708 506506
Signed: Simon Grantham
On behalf of the Environment Agency
Date: Wednesday 18th September 2013.

LONDON BOROUGH OF ENFIELD LICENSING ACT 2003 NEW PREMISES LICENCE
Date: 12/9/2013
NOTICE IS GIVEN that Panagiotis Kotsis, of Amos Gill Ltd, 167 Bowes Road, London N11 2JA has made an application to the London Borough of Enfield for a New Premises Licence for the following licensable activities: Proposed activities to supply alcohol, between the following times: 18.00 hours to 23.30 hours every day. Persons living or involved in a business in the vicinity of the premises or bodies representing them who wish to make a representation against the application, must do so by specifying the grounds of their representation in writing to the Head of Trading Standards & Licensing, PO Box 57, Civic Centre, Silver Street, Enfield EN1 3XH WITHIN TWENTY EIGHT DAYS FROM THE DATE OF THIS NOTICE.
Petitions shall state on each page the grounds for representation and notice to signatories that the petition will be copied to the applicant. Each page must be dated and signatories must print their full name and address. On the day after the application is made this completed notice must be exhibited on a conspicuous part of the premises where it can easily be seen and read by persons in the street, 24 hours a day. The notice must be kept exhibited for not less than 28 consecutive days.
It is an offence to make a false statement in connection with an application and a person guilty of an offence is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding level five on the standard scale.
The application is posted on the Council's website www.enfield.gov.uk under Licensing (L).

NOTICE OF APPLICATION TO VARY A CLUB PREMISES CERTIFICATE UNDER THE LICENSING ACT 2003
Old Grammarians Rugby Football Club has applied to Enfield Council to vary a club premises certificate at the Middlesex University Sports Ground, Green Dragon Lane, London N21 1EP. The variation is to extend the time within which the supply and consumption of alcohol can take place from 23.30 on Friday and Saturday to 01.00 Saturday and Sunday respectively. The Licence Register listing details of the application is held at the Licensing Unit, London Borough of Enfield, Civic Centre, Silver Street, Enfield, EN1 3ES, where details of the application may be inspected. Details are also available on-line at www.enfield.gov.uk.
Any representations against the application must be made in writing and received by the Licensing Unit at the above address or by e-mail to licensing@enfield.gov.uk, by no later than the 07/10/2013. Responsible authorities, residents and businesses in the vicinity of the premises or bodies representing such residents or businesses may make representations. The grounds on which representations may be made are restricted to the licensing objectives of the prevention of crime and disorder, public safety, the prevention of public nuisance, and the protection of children from harm. Representations cannot be made after the club premises certificate has been issued. Copies of all representations will be sent to the applicant. It is an offence, liable on conviction to a fine up to £5,000, to knowingly or recklessly make a false statement in connection with the application.

EN1 2RG

Personal Assistant to the Headteacher

Start Date: As soon as possible/available

Headteacher: Martin Kelsey

The Raglan Schools is a Federation of Raglan Infant and Raglan Junior Schools with 900 pupils and 120 staff. This is a new role and has many parts but essentially it falls into two areas.

Firstly, providing a confidential and personal administrative service to the Headteacher and the Leadership Team. You will be a key part of our leadership structure, facilitating meetings, keeping documentation organised and up to date, and essentially allowing us to focus on the important matters.

The second key area is communication. We are a large school, so keeping everybody in the loop is a challenging task. Your role will be to keep the communications flowing, ensuring that we have a smooth operation both within the organisation and to our parents.

We are looking for someone who is highly organised, motivated and can engage effectively with people. It is not essential that you have experience of working in a school, but we are seeking someone with proven skills in administration.

This is a term-time only post with two additional weeks for training days and other holiday tasks, although there will also be occasional evening events to attend.

Hours/weeks: 36 hours per week x 40 weeks per annum
Actual salary range: £21,124 - £22,432 per annum inc. (Scale 6)

If this is of interest to you and you would like to find out more, please download the pack from our website www.raglanschool.org or arrange a visit to see our schools and meet the team. Please contact Emma on 020 8482 0972 or email her at zurnadji@raglanschool.org

Closing Dates for applications will be Thursday 10th October, 2013. Please submit an application form and supporting letter (no more than 2 pages please). CVs are not accepted.

IT Technician

Permanent Post

Required as soon as possible

We are looking to recruit a suitably qualified IT Technician to work in our heavily oversubscribed school, which has a reputation for providing outstanding support for staff and students.

The purpose of this role is to work within the Network Team ensuring that the curriculum and administrative IT function runs smoothly.

Applicants should have proven knowledge and skills of providing IT Support in a school or commercial environment. A knowledge of VMware is desirable.

Edmonton County School is a mixed, multicultural, dual campus school with a genuinely comprehensive intake. We are a good school with outstanding aspects and we aim to be an outstanding school. The school is in an exciting stage of its development and we welcome applications from people who want to become part of a consistently improving school.

All schools and services in Enfield are committed to safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children and young people. Therefore, all workers and employees in Enfield are expected to share this commitment.

An equal opportunity employer.

TOWN HIT FOR SIX IN FA CUP

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

ENFIELD TOWN'S interest in the FA Cup came to a shuddering halt at their opening hurdle on Saturday as they slumped to a humbling 6-1 defeat at St Albans City in the first qualifying round of the competition.

There was actually little to choose between the sides during the opening 30 minutes, but Mark Nwokeji and John Frendo took full advantage of defensive errors to give Southern Premier outfit St Albans a 2-0 lead at the interval.

Further goals from Aston Goss and Nwokeji early in the second half effectively settled the tie and Nwokeji went on to complete his hat-trick before Howard Hall rounded off Town's misery – after Dave Kendall had netted a consolation effort – by scoring the sixth late on.

"Without a doubt that was the lowest I've felt in my time as a football manager," said boss Steve Newing. "It was humiliating and embarrassing and needs to be put behind us very quickly."

"The players have to start putting a bit more responsibility into their performances. Some of our decision making from experienced players was really naive."

"After half-an-hour I couldn't see it coming at all because it had been an even game, but then we self-destructed by giving away two awful goals. We can't carry on defending like we are, and I need to do something about it."

Both teams had gone close before the deadlock was broken on 31 minutes when a defensive lapse left Nwokeji with a simple tap-in.

Eight minutes later St Albans doubled their lead as Frendo latched on to a simple ball through the middle and shrugged off Chris Wild's challenge before rounding keeper Noel Imber and slotting into the net.

Injury misery: James Elmes suffered ankle ligament damage on his Town debut against St Albans

Things got worse for the visitors after the interval as Goss latched on to Frendo's first-time pass to score the third on 49 minutes before Nwokeji added the fourth with a curling effort moments later.

Goss and Elliott Bailey were both denied by the post before Nwokeji completed his hat-trick on 85 minutes by turning in Goss' cross.

Kendall provided a rare highlight for Town by forcing the ball over the line from close range, but it was St Albans who had the final say as Hall unleashed a 25-yard thunderbolt which flew into the net.

A bad day for Town was rounded off by new signing James Elmes, who joined the club from Concord Rangers last week, and Tyler Campbell both picking up ankle ligament injuries which are likely to keep them out of action for at least a month.

Enfield Town face home matches in the Ryman Premier Division against Lowestoft Town on Saturday (3pm) and AFC Hornchurch on Tuesday (7.45pm).

Comprehensive victory sees Es go top of the Essex League

ENFIELD (1893) climbed to the top of the Essex Senior League table after romping to a 4-1 win at Southend Manor on Saturday.

The Es – who have now emerged victorious in all five of their league games – dominated from the start of the match, but had to wait until the 39th minute for John Bricknell to give them the lead from the spot.

The outcome remained in the balance until a 72nd-minute own goal from Max Drury and a Harry Prince effort three minutes later put the visitors in complete control.

And, although Enfield (1893) conceded their first league goal of the season courtesy of a Tom Newell penalty on 77 minutes, Robbie Evans completed the scoring to seal an emphatic triumph.

"It was a really good result," said manager Luke Giddings. "We started well but just could not take our chances in the first half."

"The goals came in the end and we were very comfortable. I couldn't have asked for a better start to the season."

Saturday's win followed on from an equally encouraging display on Tuesday last week, when a much-changed side beat FC Romania

6-1 in the League Cup – with Billy Haspinall (two), Jack Turnpenny, Chetin Ali, Prince and Jamie Haywood all finding the target.

"I made seven changes to the team, and everyone who came in really stepped up to the plate," Giddings added. "It gave me some selection headaches for Saturday."

"We've got 22 players in the squad, and all of them are capable of starting for a team who should be challenging to win the league."

Without a match this weekend, Enfield (1893) return to action at Bowers and Pitsea on Tuesday (7.45pm).

SPORTS SHORTS

Rugby Union: Saracens continued their perfect start to the Aviva Premiership season by recording a 44-12 bonus-point victory at home to 14-man Gloucester on Sunday.

The visitors were always facing an uphill task from the moment that they had Nick Wood dismissed for stamping on Jacques Burger's face inside two minutes.

And, after a sloppy first-half display, Sarries eventually took complete control with David Strettle (two), Joel Tomkins, Schalk Brits and Billy Vunipola scoring tries and Owen Farrell kicking 19 points.

"I was very pleased," said director of rugby Mark McCall. "We did a really professional job, were very good physically and were brilliant defensively."

Rugby Union: An under-strength Enfield Ignatians side made a disappointing start to their London Division Two North East campaign on Saturday as they suffered a 42-10 loss at home to Rochford Hundred.

The home side found themselves trailing 19-3 at the interval, and things got worse for them during a second half which saw Shaun Engelbrecht, Wes Warren and Shaun Quinn all sent to the sin-bin.

Tan Mbonu scored a try for Ignatians, with Jordan Wilson adding a conversion and penalty.

"Rochford were the more clinical side," said coach Emile Hertz. "Practically each time they got into our 22 they came away with points."

Enfield Ignatians visit Braintree on Saturday.
